

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1914.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

Some Dreamer.

On sultry days I long to dream
Beside the summer sea,
Or else to find a woodland stream
Where Nature speaks to me,
But since I cannot roam afar
From crowded city streets,
I'll tarry where the buzz fans are
And dodge the honk machines.

Mr. Bernard Hanley has accepted a position at the Central Garage.

The past two nights and days have been "dee-lightful." Nights and mornings almost cool enough for fires and evercoats.

DEATH OF LOUIS ROMER.

Mr. Louis Romer, vice-president of the Keystone Commercial Company of this city, of which Col. E. L. Manchester is President, died at his home in Cincinnati this morning.

Ohio Valley Oil and Gas Co. Going After the Real Things—Read this Notice.

The stockholders of the Ohio Valley Oil & Gas Company are hereby notified that a second syndicate is being formed for the purpose of sinking the present gas well at Brooksville a further depth of 700 feet. The option of subscribing for syndicate stock will be first offered to present stockholders at a special price, and any unsold portion of the amount set apart will then be offered to the public. Mr. E. S. Perry, one of the Company's Directors, is in the City taking subscriptions, and persons interested can get in touch with him by leaving word either at the office of A. D. Cole Court street, or the Manchester Produce Company on Third street, and learn from him the details of the proposition. This option to stockholders will not be open longer than ten (10) days from this date.

BEECHWOOD PARK NOTES

Miss Adler, Cellist, Creating Sensation—Last Night's Tango Prize Winners.

Last evening, the second night of the present season at Beechwood Park was attended by an excellent crowd. It was wonderful what fun was enjoyed. The motion picture show and the dancing were the leading attractions. Mr. Albert Caproni and Miss Ella McClanahan were winners of the $250 tango prize.

The music of the orchestra deserves special mention. Prof. Bullett and his men, assisted by Miss Helen Adler, of Cincinnati, as violin-celloist. Her solos last evening, the Nocturne from Schumann and Träumerei from Schubert, were rendering of a high order.

Miss Adler is well known in Cincinnati music circles and is under contract to sing "leads" next season with the Aborn Grand Opera Co. Mayville is indeed fortunate in having Miss Adler in this city as her playing is of the very best ever heard here. We congratulate the management in obtaining her.

Miss Adler is accompanied here by her sister, Mrs. Henry Cohn, also of the Queen City.

Miss Addie Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boyd, of this city leaves this week to visit friends and relatives in Carlisle and Winchester, Ky.

Misses Edith and Esther Hoeflich entertained a number of friends last evening at the beautiful home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph K. Hoeflich, in East Second street with a dance and porch party. The rooms and broad porches were beautifully decorated with a variety of cut and potted flowers and delightful refreshments were served. The occasion was one of the pleasantest and happiest of the summer.

The London Times, as a last resort, employed a commission of famous experts to investigate the British telephone system. The first report of that commission was recently made public and it is truly a discouraging document. It is admitted by the experts that the service is deplorable, wretched, inefficient; but there is little hope offered that it will be much better so long as the system is operated under government control. The faults which are most glaring are those which are always evident in any attempt by the government to run any money-making industry.

ARE YOU A FIGHTER?

Lack of advertising on the part of merchants in their local papers is largely responsible for big business done by mail order houses throughout the country. The mail order house man has taught the idea that there is virtue in printer's ink, and he works it to the limit. By judicious advertising they make the people want what they have to sell. The best plan to combat the scheme is for merchants to wake up and use the columns of their local papers. The live newspaper man is not slow to see this, and is putting the proposition up to his local merchants, with good effect.

TARIFF MUST BE REVISED.

While war with Mexico would be unfortunate, and while every effort will undoubtedly be made to prevent bloodshed, remarks the New York Journal of Commerce, a very prominent banker at this center in conversation argued that a conflict at this time would not be entirely without its compensations. "In the first place," this banker said, "it would give President Wilson and the radical members of Congress something else to think of than perpetually hitting business." He predicted that by the end of the current Administration there will have been such a revulsion in feeling that the present tendency to call a man a rascal merely because he has been successful will be overthrown. "The tariff," he continued, "has not been settled. It is still well in the future so far as settlement is concerned. If the present amount of unemployment continues there is bound to be a demand for a revision upward of the tariff. This would not mean that if the present tariff conditions could be made permanent manufacturers would not be able to adjust their affairs to it. It would simply mean that, unfortunately, the tariff cannot be made permanent until some form of revision by commission is adopted."

President Wilson wants to know what's the matter with the country. That's easy—too much Tariff tinkering.—Marshall (Mo.) Republican.

OPTIMISM.

To look on the bright side of life and its affairs with an enthusiastic belief that everything is all right and for the best is ideal. This is especially true as it applies to those who come into contact with the sick. A physician, above all men, should be an optimist—ready to stimulate hope even though he may not have it himself. Hopefulness in the countenance and optimism in the words and actions of the physician are as sunshine in the sick-room; they stimulate hopefulness of recovery in the sick and a courage that has potent influence for good. Even when recovery is not possible, the Journal of the American Medical Association thinks that good not harm, is done. The psychic influence is always felt so long as consciousness lasts. Paget Sprague of hypochondriacs, says, "Your chances of doing good will depend mainly on the skill with which you can influence the patient's mind: for of the components of his case the mental condition is the worst."

FOOLISH PHILOSOPHY.

Two heads are better than one—except in a family. Men dislike details, but women want the full particulars. Nerve and tact is a combination that is difficult to side track. Be sure you are right before throwing over the high speed lever. Beneathers are larger and longer than they have ever been before. What does it mean? The wild outs of the prodigal son always come home to roost on the other boys. The chief trouble about the modern temptations is that they cost more than the victims are able to pay. Moreover, when a girl marries a boob to spite the man she really loves, the boob pays the freight. Of course, women do some eccentric things, and men make much fun of them; all the same, we never saw a woman wearing a gongre.

THE BLONDE STENOGR.

"Miss Vanessa, have you got your hair and complexion fixed for the day?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "Got your chewing gum going nicely?"
 "Yes."
 "Read the morning installment on the daily love story in the paper?"
 "Yes."
 "Then take this letter, please."

When a man says his business is "fair", that means he is conducting it at a loss.

Reference to the records discloses the fact that nearly every great man had a fool brother.

A weeping woman and in deep mourning probably is the most effective witness for the prosecution.

Counterfeiting is only one of the 9,000 ways we have of making money dishonestly in this country.

A letter of recommendation will get you a job about as often as an obituary will get you into heaven.

The world is filled with men who are willing to bear the burdens of others if the others will pay express rates.

When the headache is bigger than the Big Time that caused it, you are beginning to grow old and stale.

Paper for cigarettes imported from Spain last year weighed four million pounds, the value being $750,000.

LUKE McLUKE SAYS.

Even when a girl realizes that her face is so homely that it hurts people to look at it, she is always sure that she has winning ways. It used to be that the tan ended at the neck of the bathing suit. But the waists are so thin this Summer that there's no telling where the tan will end. Every time I see a blind man these hot days I slip him two bits. It must be tough to miss all that there is to be seen. Woman is unlike anything else in the world. The less a man knows about her the wiser he is. A boy bays, quits crying when he gets to be a certain age. But a girl baby keeps it up until she dies.

The acquisition of a kit of tools by a workman is an advantage from both his own point of view and from that of the employer; the workman knows his tools and produces better work more easily; the employer has a careful, interested man who can be trusted to do good work; he is interested enough in it to buy and get the best appliances for his job. Employers should encourage ownership of individual tool kits by every means possible.—American Machinist.

WITH THE FARMERS.

The year 1914 promises to be a most successful one in the history of American agriculture and particularly of farming in this section of the country. With corn in good shape, most of the tobacco set out under favorable conditions and growing rapidly, the farmers are at present preparing to reap one of the largest and best crops of wheat, rye and oats of recent years. May the fine weather continue, Old Sol, and just a little rain from yon J. Pluvius.

THE INSURANCE TRUST.

Perhaps one of the anti-trust bills now pending in congress will give the federal authorities a chance to take by the throat the gigantic fire insurance trust of America. That this combination is a trust and conspiracy there can be but little doubt. Acting with absolute unanimity, every fire insurance company withdraws from any state when legislation inimical to its profits is enacted. Thus manufacturers and business men of every class are terrorized, for fire insurance is the basis of their credit, and they are forced to appeal to the public authorities to repeal or suspend the operation of the legislation that is offensive to the insurance trust. We do not know that the recently enacted Greene Glenn law in Kentucky is defensible, but we do know that the insurance rates in this state are in many instances indefensible, and that certain great companies have made enormous profits from their business in Kentucky.

There are many very able men among the officers of the insurance trust and among the insurance editors, who are certainly adepts at juggling the figures and making out a plausible argument for the insurance trust. They have made this a specialty for a lifetime and these high-salaried experts should be matched with experts of just as great ability by the federal and state governments to combat their specious arguments. The interstate commerce commission, after years of effort, has organized a corps of experts on freight-rate making who are the equals of the greatest rate-makers of the railroads and this commission has also required the railroads to adopt, in great part, a uniform bookkeeping system by which juggled figures can not deceive. It is idle to pretend that the fire insurance trust untrammelled has given property owners in Kentucky, or other states, such rates of insurance as are reasonable. In state after state this trust has been compelled by wise legislation to lower its rates, and while the bluff has been put up for a time of withdrawing from some of these states, there is no state in which the insurance trust is not again doing business. If Kentucky had an able and courageous business man as governor, who would direct safe and sane insurance legislation and then enforce it, and not simply drift with the tide, the people of this state would not have to look to congressional enactment for the relief to which they are entitled. —Owensboro Messenger.

THE DIVORCE PROBLEM.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

Paris, Ky., June 8, 1914.

I have been a reader of your paper for over 30 years, and have learned to rely upon the wisdom of your editorial utterances, but your remarks about divorce in today's issue were not worthy of you in either thought or diction. Now remember, I am not a divorced woman—I will never be one, though long married—still I am a firm believer in the sanctity of divorce, and, with the great George Brandes, fervently pray: "God send us more divorces." Begging your pardon, Mr. Editor, I'll remark that your solicitude for the "helpless child" is silly. God never intended that innocent childhood should be passed in a home where a drunken father lives, or a spoiled mother or even where continual quarrels abound, or where either parent shows a settled aversion for the other. Here is one fact that cannot be questioned: Those who most persistently and bitterly assail divorce were never married. Those who most dogmatically lay down rules for the family never presided over a family. Their views are not entertained for ethical reasons, but simply to bolster up a holy superstition. People who prefer to live together in full enjoyment of each other's disagreeable traits certainly should be allowed to do so, but they should not be allowed to force others to maintain an unhappy nullity.

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years, with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death."

Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken.

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

Get a bottle of Cardui to-day.

A young man called on a doctor complaining of pains in his stomach. The doctor diagnosed the case and advised the patient to go home and try a pill pickle. If he could keep that on his stomach he was to report to the doctor in the morning. The next day the patient returned and when the doctor asked him if he could keep the pickle on his stomach, he replied, "I could as long as I stayed awake, but when I fell asleep, it rolled off."

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Because of Terrible Backache. Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered from displacement and inflammation, and had such pains in my sides, and terrible backache so that I could hardly stand. I took six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I can do any amount of work, sleep good, eat good, and don't have a bit of trouble. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to every suffering woman."—Mrs. HARRY FISHER, 1642 Juniata Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

Valuable Advice for Maysville Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment, the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then into the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Don's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Maysville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Dona McLeod, Maysville, Ky., says: "I had been feeling poorly for some time, before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy and my back and head ached. I rested poorly and morales I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Don's Kidney Pills. I used them and before long I was a great deal better. I was able to sleep well and they improved my health."

Price 50¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Don's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McLeod had. Foster-McBride Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Public Sale

We will sell at Public Auction at 2 p. m., Saturday June 20th, the Suburban home of Mr. D. A. Emmett, located on the Maysville and Germantown turnpike just outside the city limits. This is a nice two story frame house of seven rooms with halls, bath and water in the house, also small house on corner of lot that rents to good advantage, together with about two acres of land. There is a variety of fruit of all kinds on this place. A splendid place for chicken raising and truck gardening. Mr. Emmett has bought a farm and moved his family to it, and has decided to sell this very desirable home. With the extension of the street car line in the West End, and the many improvements that are going on in this section of our city, we think we can see a fine opportunity for an investment in this West End property. This home will be sold on easy terms which will be announced on day of sale. Here is your chance to buy a nice home at your own price.
